Foreword

As we graduate, we are fully aware of the crises in the world today—democracy versus dictatorship . . . freedom versus enslavement. Massachusetts, known as the cradle of liberty, has served our country well. Therefore, we have chosen to portray as the theme of our yearbook the importance of our commonwealth in the past, present, and future of the United States.

In future years, when we review the events of our times, we hope to look with pride upon the loyalty of the members of the class of 1960 to God, our nation, and our commonwealth.

In Memoriam

The Class of 1960 was saddened on January 26, 1959, by the death of one of its most likeable members, George Brasco. His loyalty and willingness to lend a helping hand have won this popular, cheerful lad an everlasting place in our hearts and memories.

"MAY HE REST IN PEACE . . ."

Dedication

Mr. Francis E. Sheehy

We the members of the Class of 1960 dedicate our yearbook to Mr. Francis E. Sheehy, who served faithfully as our headmaster from 1953 to 1959. Mr. Sheehy, a native of Dorchester, Massachusetts, graduated from Dartmouth College and Harvard Graduate School.

After two years in the business world Mr. Sheehy entered the field of education. Before coming to Waltham High in 1928, he taught science, history, biology, and physics in Medway and Manchester.

While at Waltham High Mr. Sheehy served as a teacher, class advisor, guidance counselor, master, and finally headmaster.

After many years in his chosen profession, Mr. Sheehy retired in June 1959. Since his retirement he has been in residence at West Yarmouth on Cape Cod.

We wish to dedicate this book, the 1960 Mirror, as a token of our gratitude for his tireless efforts on our behalf.

THE PREPARATION OF THE YOUTH OF AMERICA

First -- To be alert and informed citizens, in an age when ignorance or misinformation could bring political catastrophe -- an age when the guarding of our nearest communities may ultimately depend upon our knowledge of the most distant lands and peoples.

Second -- To be tolerant and sensitive citizens -- so that our society may not suffer the moral sickness that is bigotry -- and may clearly perceive the values and the virtues cherished in other societies.

Third -- To be skilled and accomplished citizens -- able to grasp the great levers, turn the giant wheels, of this new atomic age, as nature finally surrenders to men so many of its colossal secrets.

Fourth -- To be wise and reflective citizens, thankful for the new leisure, promising a new freedom from much toil -- not merely to relax in pleasure but to cultivate the mind and to nourish the spirit. To be wholly educated, in the sense that man is a spiritual and intellectual and physical being. America needs citizens strong in their ideals and spiritual convictions, healthy in their bodies, and tirelessly inquiring in mind.

And finally -- to be bold and courageous citizens, knowing that strength and sacrifice are the indispensable saving weapons of freedom -- and knowing that the frontier in America, that rules so much of our history, has become, in this age, the frontier that is America -- leader of free nations, hope of free men.

Dear Miss Cahill and Miss Stern:

The theme selected by the Class of 1960 of Waltham High School is particularly appropriate today. In an age of accelerated scientific progress, technological revolutions and great material success there is always a danger that we will forget the basic values upon which our nation was founded.

Massachusetts history contains much of the historic and cultural heritage of our entire nation. By devoting the yearbook to its customs, its landmarks and its history the present is placed in perspective. Few people can think of the hardy explorers that roamed the Massachusetts coast or read the stories of the Pilgrims and the Puritans without a sense of pride in American traditions. It was here that the "embattled farmers" who inspired future generations made their stand in behalf of freedom, equality and justice. Their descendants have continued in the forefront of the continuous struggle for these ideals. To be reminded of this history is both comforting and challenging.

I congratulate the 1960 Class on their thoughtfulness and their enterprise.

With every good wish, I am

Sincerely,

TO MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1960

OF WALTHAM SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL:

It is a pleasure, as Governor, to be afforded the opportunity by your Mirror co-editors, Katherine Cahill and Elaine Stern, to extend my personal best wishes to each of you on the occasion of your forthcoming graduation.

The event will be a milestone in your lives and will be among the important and, in many ways, more memorable aspects of your achievements of the past and future.

I join with your friends in hoping that in the years ahead, and in whatever may be the course of your activities as responsible citizens of your communities, good fortune and success always will be with you.

While I may, I should like to commend the theme of your yearbook, which emphasizes the historical background of Massachusetts. It is a noteworthy endeavor, especially since there is so much that our Commonwealth has contributed to the growth and development of our nation.

Congratulations to you all and best of luck.

Sincerely yours,

FOSTER FURCOLO

Miss Katherine Cahill
Miss Elaine Stern
Co-Editors, The Mirror
Senior High School
Waltham 54, Massachusetts

Dear Miss Cahill and Miss Stern:

I am delighted to learn that Waltham High School's Class of 1960 is using the customs, landmarks and history of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as the central theme for its yearbook.

Particularly in times which are characterized by fast and far-reaching change, such as the present, it is important to remind ourselves of the heritage of history and tradition which is responsible for the benefits we happily share today.

None of the other 49 states has a richer history than does Massachusetts. Exploration and settlement of what we now know as the Bay State actually began well before the Pilgrims landed in 1620. Our Commonwealth was truly the birthplace of American Liberty. This is best illustrated during the times of the original settlers who came to the New World to find religious freedom and economic betterment; by the efforts of John Hancock and the Adams' to resist the Stamp Act; through the Boston Massacre, Concord and Lexington and the Battle of Bunker Hill; and up to the State ratification of the federal Constitution on February 6, 1788. Later, Massachusetts became a focus of the abolitionist effort and gave unstinted support to the cause of the Union in the Civil War.

The mid-19th century was perhaps Massachusetts' most glorious age, during which it came to both economic and cultural pre-eminence. The Commonwealth gained a leading position in cotton and wool textiles and in the shoe industry. It produced a famed roster of literary figures, including Emerson, Hawthorne, Thoreau, Holmes and Longfellow. Its society was augmented through immigration of people first of Irish and later of southern and eastern European stock.

Our historical background can serve a very real purpose in preparing us with true dedication for the future. The Commonwealth's traditional principles of self-reliance and integrity are critically needed in the challenges ahead, and I am sure that Massachusetts will continue to lead the nation with honor, industry and resourcefulness.

I wish to convey my very best wishes to the Waltham High School Class of 1960, with the confidence that the role of its members in the continued leadership of our Commonwealth will be very distinguished indeed.

Sincerely,

Hi, Kids!

How can I ever really tell you, I wonder, how much it has meant to me to be your A.F.S. exchange student to Milano, Italy, this summer. I could describe, of course, the folk sings we held on the deck of the S. S. Zuiderkruis busily steamed across the ocean, or the wonderful members of the Pizzorno and Rossi families with whom I lived. Perhaps I could explain the aromas of an Italian kitchen, or tell you of the thrill I felt on seeing the dome of St. Peter's in the twilight. But somehow even these things fail to express what I really want to say. Being an exchange student is, in truth, rather an indescribable experience, because suddenly, at some unknown minute, you really realize the wonderful truth in that statement that says all men are brothers. After that it is merely a question of living the American Field Service motto: "Walk together, talk together, O ye peoples of the earth: then and only then shall ye have peace."

Always,
Tina

Hi, Kids,

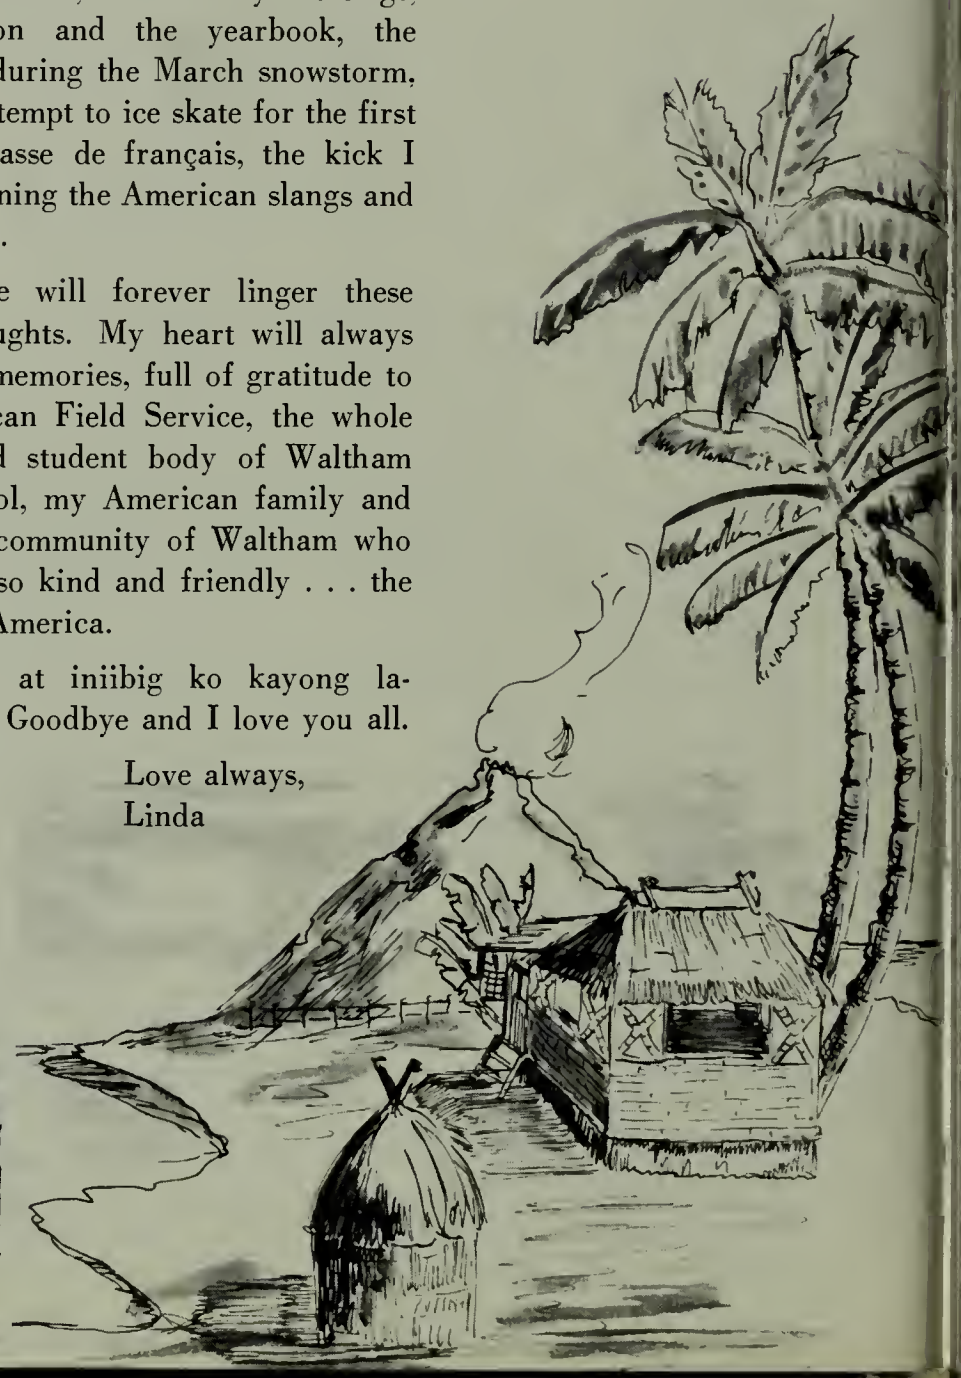
In life everything has a beginning and an end. Days go too fast, and now I have to face the sad fact that soon I'll be saying adieu to my friends in Waltham, to the vast and beautiful America.

America, will I ever forget you? Will days full of happy memories and experiences ever be forgotten? Fully will I remember and cherish the "How do you like Americas?", the f o o t b a l l games, the bus tickets from Mr. Gallagher, the h o m e r o o m and democracy classes of Mrs. Dunbrack, the art room of Mrs. Gabriel, the sorority meetings, Mr. Neylon and the yearbook, the shoveling during the March snowstorm, the bold attempt to ice skate for the first time, la classe de français, the kick I had in learning the American slangs and many more.

With me will forever linger these happy thoughts. My heart will always be full of memories, full of gratitude to the American Field Service, the whole faculty and student body of Waltham High School, my American family and the whole community of Waltham who have been so kind and friendly . . . the people of America.

"Paalam at iniibig ko kayong lahat!!" . . . Goodbye and I love you all.

Love always,
Linda



Class Will

We, the members of the Senior Class, in order to show our gratitude to the teachers, to form a more perfect school, to insure scholastic tranquility, and to promote the general welfare of the students, hereby present and record the last will and testament of the graduating class of nineteen hundred and sixty.

To Mr. Gallagher, our affable headmaster, we leave our sincere gratitude for making our senior year such a wonderful finale to our three terms at Waltham High School.

We bequeath to Mr. May a book bound in gold comprised of all the fantastic excuses that he has received in the attendance office, Room 210.

Mr. Westall, Director of the Vocational High School, will be the proud recipient of a barometer especially constructed in the electronics lab designed to check the "human elements" and to help him determine how many boys will appear without ties.

To our submaster, Mr. Hood, we endow an anthology of voluntary enforced book reports.

Our gift to Mr. Morang, our other submaster, is a set of accurate scales, a new supply of unbreakable test tubes, and a new batch of properly graduated cylinders.

So that Miss Betts will be able to play her French records in style, we bequeath to her a new ultra modern stereophonic record player.

For Mr. Husson we leave an I.O.U. signed by all the undetected members of the National Honor Society who forgot to wear their pins.

We bestow on Miss McCullough a life-sized color television set and a reclining easy chair so she can watch "Focus" in the comfort of her office.

A small foreign car is our presentation to Mr. LeFlem. We are sure this auto will make the trip to his native France a most delightful vacation.

The gift which we will to Miss MacQuarrie is a year's supply of tiny brushes to keep her pencil sharpener bright and gleaming all the time.

Bequeathed to Mr. Levey is a large size whetstone with which to sharpen his shining axe.

After being controlled on the basketball court by a stopwatch, Mr. Quinn will enjoy our gift, a grandfather's clock, to keep him happy while ticking away his leisure moments.

A tall shiny percolator awaits Mr. Lynch, for his daily early morning cup of coffee.

For her Monday "U. S. News and World Report" discussions we leave to Mrs. Carney a full time moderator whose spare time would be spent tending her greenhouse in 217.

Our gift to Mr. Viscarello is a new set of drums as an outlet for the emotional stress and strain built up from the tension that mounts from teaching novice drivers.

To Miss Hirst, a knotty pine partition on stairway to keep her students always to the right.

For Miss Madden we replenish innumerable pins and needles borrowed the past three years.

Our presentation to Mr. Neylon is an elevator for quick trips from 216 to the Mirror Room.

We leave to Miss Dubois a promoter who will guarantee publication of her latest book on French History.

In order to time the three minute oral talks of her students, we leave to Miss Darmedy an accurate stop watch which will sound an alarm.

To Mr. Glynn we leave a solid gold gavel to keep his business law classes and his Debating Club in order.

We bequeath to Mr. Pike an extra long toothbrush and a year's supply of tooth paste to keep his smile gleaming forever.

Connected to all the rooms in the school from 407 to 017 will be a new telephone system which we devise as our bequest to Mrs. Slaman and Miss Murray.

To Mr. Daniels we leave a substantial supply of "worry pills" to see him over these crucial years in trying to produce "brainy electronic technicians."

That Mr. Hall may keep school funds safe between trips to bank, we leave a large piggy bank.

A homeroom, well endowed with funds for various collections, is left to our Mrs. Murphy.

We leave Mr. Garrahan screaming, petrified, and fainting at the "oders," O-D-E-R-S, of 013.

To the members of the Class of 1961 we leave our seats in the senior homerooms with the hope that they will fill them as capably as we did.

To the members of the Class of 1962 we bequeath a complete set of fire-fighting equipment to enable them to extinguish the blaze of glory of our departure from Waltham High.

As co-executors of this will we appoint Mrs. Shirley, Miss Hogan, Mr. Poirer who have witnessed our signatures thereof to our final will and testament in this the year of our graduation. nineteen hundred and sixty. Elaine Stern, assisted by Irene Asekoff.

Class Poem

DREAM OF GREAT THINGS. YOUNG GENERATION:

I SEE A WORLD WHERE ALL MEN ARE BROTHERS AND ALL BROTHERS ARE FREE.

I SEE A TIME OF PEACE AND GOODNESS:

ALL THIS AWAITS US.

LOOK AHEAD. BEYOND THE MIST.

THERE IS A LITTLE WORLD—
BUT NOT OF LITTLE MEN.

OUR HANDS MUST MOLD THE FUTURE.

AND WE—BUT AN APPRENTICE
AT CREATION,

SEEKING FIRST THE COUNSEL OF THE MASTER.

WHY DO YOU FEAR

WHEN IN YOUR HANDS. YOUR HEADS,
YOUR HEARTS

THERE IS THE POWER OF A PROMISE?

LOOK NOT TO THE MOUNTAINS FOR YOUR STRENGTH.
NOR TO THE ANGRY FOAMINGS OF THE SEA.

PLACE NOT YOUR FAITH IN WONDERS OF CREATION

BUT IN THE PEACEFUL PALM OF
THE CREATOR.

REST WITH THE WEARY;
SEEK NO WAR TO WAGE.

DARE TO DREAM, WALK SIDE BY SIDE, WALK STRONG AND PROUD.

TO BREATHE FREE, TO BE FREE,

TO FEEL THE BLOOD OF MANY NATIONS IN THE PULSE OF ONE:

ALL THESE THINGS ARE YOURS, AMERICAN.

As we crossed the threshold of the new Lexington Street School on September 16, 1957, we embarked upon another episode in our lives, our high school career. Upperclassmen and sophomores were equally confused by the maze of corridors and staircases, so we missed being directed to the "elevator" or the "broomcloset."

Our first social event of the year took place in the high school gym, but who would have recognized the gym the night of the Harvest Dance? It was gayly decorated with pumpkins, scarecrows, and corn shocks, which gave a Halloween air to this gala affair.

At the Newton rally we heard shouts of "Fight, score, win!", and we did win, 27-7. This was only one of the many victories we enjoyed during the season as the squad chalked up a 6-1-1 record. Helping the 1957 team along were Al Graceffa, Carl Pergola, Mike Skane, and Bob McCullough, all members of our own Class of 1960.

At the beginning of the third quarter we held our first official elections, and the winning candidates were Jimmy Curtin, Franny Wright, Janice Wheeler, and Diane Christian as president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

"Cruising Along in '58" was the theme of our annual talent show for the benefit of the American Field Service. Through it, we visited such far away places as London, Paris, and Milan.

Cheers of "Beat that other team!" were heard amidst peals of laughter at the Student-Faculty basketball game sponsored by the Student Council. Undaunted by the excitement, the Faculty emerged victorious, 25-16.

A great honor was paid to a member of the Sophomore Class when Anne Paquette was chosen by director Raymond A. Crawford to play the lead in the production of Naughty Marietta, a comic opera.

As the year drew to a close and the seniors finally graduated, we found ourselves moved up a notch. We were upperclassmen ready to welcome the new sophomores.

Our junior year got under way with our classes at the Senior High School on School Street, and again we went through the process of being confused and lost, for a little while anyway.

A new feature at Waltham High was the Football Pep Squad with Paula Herter as the peppy co-chairman. In their bright red and white outfits, the club members lent strong moral support to our gridiron team.

At Christmas time we were royally entertained at an assembly by a chorus directed by Mr. Raymond A. Crawford and featuring our own Class of 1960 soloist, Anne Paquette.

The theme of the Junior Prom, which was held February 20, 1959, was hearts and flowers. Trellises, hearts, and flowers in rainbow hues decorated the gym, the ceiling of which was centered by a rotating crystal ball. The prom provided an evening of fun and enjoyment for the more than one hundred couples who attended. The Junior Class officers who headed the Prom Committee were Al Graceffa, president; Paulette Fienman, vice president; Janice Wheeler, secretary; and Suzanne Weagle, treasurer.

Waltham High was the scene of the American Field Service weekend, in which twenty-four foreign exchange students participated. They were guests of W.H.S. students and were honored at a splash party and dance held at the Boys' Club to raise funds to further the exchange program.

The A.F.S. also benefited by the 1959 Talent Show, the theme of which was "Broadway." This production featured many of the songs from the hit musicals on Broadway and was thoroughly entertaining.

Through the American Field Service Summer Exchange Program, Christine Cosgrove, '60, was selected to represent Waltham High as an exchange student to Italy.

The 1959 Kingsbury Temperance Fund Essay Contest was won by Barbara Mostowitz, Christine Cosgrove, Faith Norton, Hank Webb, Anne Paquette, Thomas Kinraide, Kenny Zeno, Dotty O'Malley, Nancy Tabb, Sandra Bessey, Patricia Cross, and Maureen Reilly.

Clifford Erickson represented Waltham High at the "Youth Conference on the Atom" at Atlantic City, New Jersey. Accompanying our top scientist was Almon W. Morang, head of our Science Department.

At the annual spring convention of the Junior Classical League, Tony Palumbo and Pat Cross were elected president and secretary, respectively, of the Massachusetts J.C.L. Kenny Zeno represented Waltham High at the Governor's Council on Youth. Having received scholarships from the Waltham Red Cross Chapter, Ann Paquette and Barbara Mostowitz attended a Leadership Training Center at Phillips Academy, Andover, during the last week of August 1959.

A momentous event in the life of more than thirty juniors was their initiation into the National Honor Society. The students were chosen on the basis of excellence in character, scholarship, citizenship, and leadership. Elected officers of the Honor Society were Robert Dangelmayer, Nancy Tabb, and Sherry Smith as president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

History

At the graduation exercises of the Class of 1959, three juniors received special awards for high scholastic records. The Harvard Book Award was presented to Robert Dangelmayer, and the first annual Phi Beta Kappa Book Awards to Christine Cosgrove and Patricia Cross. The W.H.S. delegates to Girls' State and Boys' State were Nancy Tabb and David Butler.

On Friday, June 19, 1959, we officially became seniors as school came to an end for another year.

Our senior year began at last on September 10, 1959. We were saddened at the resignation of Francis E. Sheehy, our headmaster, but we happily anticipated the arrival of our new headmaster. William J. Gallagher, former principal of North Junior High, and we welcomed four foreign students to our Senior Class: Lindaflor Tiangco, Philippines; Zeynep Toros, Turkey; Charles Magarian, Egypt; and Maurice DiNitto, Italy. The permanent officers of the Class of 1960, who were elected during the previous spring, were Richard Martin, Penny Schofield, Janice Wheeler, and Barbara Mostowitz as president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. The Student Council officers included Alfio Graceffa, president; Anne Paquette, girls' vice president; Tony Palumbo, boys' vice president; and Clifford Erickson, secretary-treasurer.

Katherine Cahill and Elaine Stern were named co-editors of the 1960 Mirror. Pat Cross and Christine Cosgrove were named Editors-in-Chief of our weekly newspaper column, This Week at Waltham High.

Our sports season got underway with football first on the agenda. The boys, under Co-captains Al Graceffa and Carl Pergola, succeeded in defeating our arch-rival Newton in one of the most thrilling games of the season. Senior members of our squad included Mike Skane, Allie Crane, John Frechette, Billy Noke, Arthur Main, Jimmy Curtin, Bobby Dangelmayer, Walter Gleason, Mike McNamara, and Joe LaCava. Our cheerleaders, led by Millie Salamone and supervised by Mrs. Dunbrack, included Elaine Stern, Anne Paquette, Marcia Gilli, Linda Mosman, and Sue Weagle.

With Mr. Gerard Belliveau director and Tony Palumbo student director, the Senior Class presented "Burner of the Bugle," a farce in three acts. Joel Cohn and Joanne Ala played the leads, and the supporting cast helped to make this truly a success.

On December 4 the hockey team opened its season in the G.B.I. League under co-captains Jerry Zoehler and Ben Potter. Seniors helping the team along to victory included Randy Martin, Jay MacDonald, Phil McPhee, and Carl Pergola. Cheering the unceasing efforts of these boys were Charlene DeRose, Joanne Hayes, Terry Iannuzzo, Barbara Hart, Carol Murphy, Barbara Mostowitz, and Penny Schofield.

The Waltham High Band and the Choralettes, all seniors, under the direction of Raymond A. Crawford, presented a Christmas Assembly for the benefit of the entire student body and faculty.

Many awards and honors were bestowed upon members of the Senior Class throughout the year. The recipients were the following: the Freedman-Kaitz Award, Richard Martin; Voice of Democracy Contest, Barbara Mostowitz; Student Government Day Representative, Kenny Zeno; D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award, Barbara Mostowitz; This Is My Security Contest, Christine Cosgrove; Homemaker of Tomorrow Award, Barbara Mostowitz; and March of Dimes Candidates, Roberta Smith and Janice Wheeler.

Co-captains Mike Skane and Mike Sullivan led the basketball team to victory many times. The other senior players included Allie Crane, alias "Mr. Clutch," Bernie Malloy, and Bill Smith.

"Once in Every Family" was the title of the Dramatics Club play produced by Mr. Gerard Belliveau with Joanne Ala and Gladys Kenney as student directors. The leading roles were taken by Nancy Tabb and George Breslin.

"Expressions" was the fitting theme of our 1960 Talent Show, as we traced the history of music under the direction of Kenny Zeno and honorary director Lindaflor Tiangco, our exchange student from the Philippines.

The climax of our senior year was the Senior Prom, an evening of rapture mingled with a little sadness. The beautiful decorations, the swirling colors of the gowns, and the soft strains of "Auld Lang Syne" made the evening complete.

Now we are ready to receive our diplomas at Graduation tomorrow knowing full well that we are closing the door on three of the best years of our lives . . . our years at Waltham High School.

As I rode down Fienman Boulevard, the main street of Memoryville, U. S. A., in my Paolino-propelled rocket mobile, I gasped in astonishment at the sights before me. A neon sign on the corner of Barr and Fienman informed me that this building was the Lincoln Grant National Bank. The building was so magnificently constructed that I wanted to inquire about the architect's name. As I entered the bank, I waved to the friendly and efficient tellers, Marilyn Rodier and Lorraine Smith. Marcia Collins, who had become vice president when she was only twenty years old, showed me to the president's office. What a surprise to see the door marked "Alfred Crane—President." When he asked me inside, Allie told me he had retired from his position as high scorer for the Boston Celtics. For five years Crazylegs Dave Smith, Low-flying Fred LaChapelle, and Towering Howie Payne had been his teammates. Allie then escorted me into his executive secretary's office. Perched behind an Evelyn Wood desk was Miss Redhead of 1980, Sherry Smith!!! When I asked Allie about the building's architect, he lifted from Sherry's desk a calendar which said "LaCava and Lerro." Naturally I had heard about this famous team. They had just completed remodeling the Empire State Building. Paul Duprez had done the interior decorating for both of these stupendous structures.

After spending an enjoyable morning reminiscing with Allie, I departed in search of a well-known restaurant. As I was driving down Mirabito Way, my Paolino-propelled mobile suddenly sputtered to a standstill. What could I do? I was marooned in the middle of a strange town. I picked my Eglitis vista-phone and dialed "O" for operator. "Operator, operator! What can I do? I am stranded in my rocket mobile and don't know how to start it!" "Call MOonview 3-5936821-J and ask for William Glovasky, head Mobile-Mechanic. I'm sure he'll be able to help you," answered the friendly voice. As I hung up I realized that the voice was that of Paula LaMont. Quickly I dialed "O" again, but I failed to reach the same operator. This time I talked to Janet McFarland, who was in charge of all the telephone operators of the Aucoin Telephone Company. I dialed the number Paula had given me and asked for a mechanic who could assist me. As soon as I had hung up the phone, Bill Glovasky arrived. Quick as a wink Bill fixed my vehicle, and I resumed my search for an eating place. As I continued along Mirabito Way, I saw a billboard with an enormous plate of spaghetti pictured on it. The sign said, "No one makes spaghetti as Joanne Muller does! Try this exciting new dish at Grace Giardina's new restaurant." The directions said to continue a mile on Mirabito and then take a right onto Casella Place. I carefully followed the directions, and as I drew up in front of "Giardina's" James McDonnell offered to park my Paolino-propelled rocket mobile in Robert Sennett's parking lot. It seems that Robert was in Africa hunting for big game on a safari led by Irene Asekoff. This caravan was said to be the safest expedition ever to leave the United States.

Naturally it was safe—the animals had all been tamed for Billy Gates' modernistic Bronx Zoo. As I entered Grace's new emporium, I was dazzled by the display of precious gems. Dorothea Sterling's jewelry store, celebrating its fifteenth anniversary, had sent diamond necklaces for Grace's first fifty patrons. Gail Borges, hostess of this charming dinner club, led me to a table near the stage. I was just in time for the afternoon performance. First on the entertainment program were the Choralettes, those famous singers from Waltham High School. We always knew they'd be the best female vocalists in the world. As I listened to their act, I thought about the good old days at Waltham High. In harmonious voices Faith Norton, Ginny Sinclair, Ellen Estabrook, Ruth Thorburn, Kathy Sederquist, and Anne Paquette sang about "Blue Skies over Mercury!" I asked Anne who'd composed that masterpiece and found that it was Elizabeth Swanson (Swan Song), the most famous composer of the twentieth century. My speedy waitress Carole Parkhurst brought me the menu, and as I looked over the items, the words "Filet Mignon a la Coveney" leaped out from the page. Upon inquiring, I found that this tempting dish had been developed and perfected by that mathematical genius of space—Marie Coveney, who cooked exotic dishes in her spare time. As a special favor to Dean Edward Kaplan, Marie was teaching Nuclear physics at Palumbo Institute of Technology. As I was leaving the restaurant after a supremely delicious meal, I noticed a large poster announcing Laura Maccio's lecture, which would take place at Mike Skane's world renowned Studio of Fine Arts in a week. I climbed back into my mobile and, as I turned onto Battaglia Way, I saw a very distinguished gentleman alighting from a Meissner taxi. At a second glance I recognized him to be Charles Magarian. "Hello, Mr. Magarian. How do you happen to be here?" Charlie told me that he was now American ambassador to Egypt. Priscilla Goolkasian, who held the Violin Crown of the Northern Hemisphere, accompanied him on this tour of Memoryville.

"Extra, extra! Read all about it! Waltham man breaks up rocket-stealing ring on the moon." Hastily I gave Joseph Lopez a quarter for today's edition of the "Cosgrove Gazette." I flipped the pages to the continuation of the story. As I reached page one hundred three, a giant colored picture of Linda Leonard caught by eye. She and Paula Herter had just taxied in on Willy Cincotta's landing strip after their successful trip to Livelyville, the heart of Paris' fashion center, where they'd reviewed the latest fall fashions of the Paris designers. Linda reported that the new silhouettes were the most exciting yet. Although Bari Biederbeck was displaying a hemline even shorter than this year's, Charlene DeRose had extended hers nearly to her ankle.

I made it a point to stop at my favorite department store, the "Pretty Penny," owned and operated by Penny Schofield, to order a new Pat Lowd creation for my wardrobe. Penny's top salesgirl Charlotte Smith helped me choose from her selection of hand-made space suits. I decided on a bright orange one as a birthday present for Dr. Hank Webb, now working laboriously on his forthcoming novel, "The Web of Intrigue." In the notions section I bought a Paul McLaughlin space-o-meter for my Paolino-propelled rocket mobile. Across the way I noticed the celebrated author, Eugene O'Neil, namesake of the noted playwright. I saw I better not stop to talk to him because he was so busy juggling a dozen of Don More's shirts for salesgirl Diane Thompson to place on the shelves. They were the most amazing, dazzling shirts I'd ever seen. Made of exotic Wheeler silk imported from the desperado Indian town of Gilligansville, these masterpieces of art were sure to be a sell-out. Suddenly it occurred to me that I hadn't yet read the article about the rocket-stealing ring. I flipped the pages of the newspaper to the editorial commending these men for their brave deeds. And to my surprise, in large bold letters, there was the name of Christine Cosgrove, Editor. Recognizing her at once as the former co-editor of the Waltham High School column, I decided to pay her a call.

At the Cosgrove Evening Gazette Office it was a minute or two before I could attract anyone's attention, as the room was in a state of complete chaos. Finally one lady put down her Rigoli receiver. When she smiled I recognized Susan Place, a member of that great secretarial course of 1960. In the background I could hear a booming voice, immediately causing me to turn around. That voice! There couldn't be another one like it anywhere! Sure enough there was Alfio Graceffa, now sports editor of this prominent newspaper, looking very perturbed as he was trying to get the attention of the copy boy. Al hollered, "Copy boy! Copy boy! Where's that Bill Noko? Why isn't he here when I want him? I just bought him a new pair of rocket roller skates. Can't he ever be on time?" Al escorted me into his office where the walls were covered with pictures of our famous old W.H.S. alumni in the sports world. There was Joe Russo, newly crowned Mr. Universe of 1980. As I scanned the wall, another name stood out. Janet May was leading the Women's American League with a batting average of .561. The Randall twins, Peter and Harold, known professionally as the "Phantoms on Skis," were making their debut on the Austrian slopes.

From the sports department I traveled across the hall to the room of the Art Staff, headed by Edith Loeser. Busily working for today's publication was Denise Denehy. Taking time out from his tedious schedule at the Ippolito Wayside Inn where he was Master of Ceremonies, was Teddy Flynn. He was now sketching the political cartoon, a caricature of Ken Zeno who is running for the office of President of the New Republic of Neptune. On the opposing party's ticket was Bob Dangelmayer. Time was getting short so I decided to be on my way.

As I emerged from the newspaper building, I saw a stand set up on the sidewalk. Dennis Dube and Jim Merrill were selling tickets to the Neptune County Fair. At 4:15 I caught the Neptune Special. My ticket said I would arrive there only 20 minutes after my take-off. Dick Cusack, the pilot, with his co-pilotess Betty Scott, deftly guided the Pazolt missile on the two-million mile flight.

Once arriving in the world of Neptune, I unfastened my Red Martin moonsuit, designed by that whiz of outer space, and climbed down with the aid of stewardess Geraldine Maker. She was extremely polite. Inquiring I found her alma mater to be the Linda Mosman Finishing School, world renowned for its charming, efficient, capable airline hostesses. As I traveled toward the town of Testaville, my attention turned to an odd excursion approaching our carriage. It couldn't be! Not Russell LeClaire! It was a forty-four piece band led by Donna Hoyt and Frances Wright, drum majorettes. Donna and Fran, now professionals, had formed a baton space twirling school for the children of Testaville. As the band passed my portable reviewing stand, I noticed that Carole Horne was chief saxophonist. Leading the hometown group of Brownie Rockettes and a Girl Scout Brigade was Civil Air Patrol leader Judy Stockwell.

After the parade, I decided to stop in the local theater to catch the early show at Marsh's Movieland, the gateway to stardom. Tonight the Woman's Club had rented the hall for their annual variety show to be climaxed by the crowning of the 1980 Miss March of Dollars. The man in the next seat informed me that this show was a long awaited event by the Testaville folk.

First to appear on the scene was Frances Chapdelaine with her remarkably well-trained dog trio of John, George, and Nemo. Tom Barca, the master of ceremonies, announced with his cheerful voice that the next act would be Joanne Hayes doing her impersonations of the great comedienne Joanne "The Whiz" Ala. Diane Christian brought her dummy Ala-wishes Van Croperton into the audience where she signed autographs for her many fans. As a special treat for the teen-space age members of the house, the team of Klimoski and Cohn, known world-wide for their newspaper column of "Dear Abby Plus," gave advice to the lovelorn. The bugles soon foretold the crowning of the Miss March of Dollars. Testaville Mayor Paul Erwin placed the crown on the long sparkling tresses of Miss "Bobbi" Smith. The performance was over, and I decided it was time I found accommodations for the night.

Outside, the meteor lights of the town shone brightly, illuminating the revolving sidewalks designed by Bob Isaacson, who was now working on the Gullotti Gateway to the Moon. This bridge was named for that famed Russell Gullotti, who ten years previously had discovered diamonds on the Moon's crust. The town's hotel-l-O was just closing. Quickly I pressed my sidewalk button to "zoom," but I was too late; the hotel door was locked. Peeping through an open window in the rear of the building, I noticed a sleeping bellboy. It was Paul Banacos. "Butch," I screamed, "I haven't seen you in twenty years." After he was fully awake, we chatted about the good ol' lunch periods in the Waltham High cafe. Butch made an exception by escorting me to a room after closing hours. My room was magnificently decorated. I fell on the spaceo-bed and was soon transported to the hand of Nod.

Next morning there came a knock on the door. "Come in," I cried. In walked Butch with a tray of exotic looking dishes. Filled with curiosity, I demanded an explanation for this conglomeration of delicacies. Morley astronautical soup was the morning appetizer. The main dish was toast a la mode smothered in rich creamy Parker butter and eggs boiled in the shape of Neptune.

After my delicious meal Butch suggested that I visit the Testaville Astrobiological Regional School where Michael Sullivan was dean. That afternoon, following Butch's advice, I journeyed along DiMuzio Drive in my Paolino-propelled rocket mobile to the outskirts of the city, where the college was located. Once inside this huge structure, I wandered down the many winding corridors looking for the door marked Dean. After many futile attempts to find Dean Sullivan's office, I decided to open one of the numerous doors to investigate. Entering the room, I was almost swallowed up by the enormous, entangling vines which grew in great quantity in this laboratory. I fought my way through the dense overgrowth and came upon Professor Barbara Mostowitz and her assistant Paulet Kirley, who were deeply engrossed in an experiment concerning the plant life of Venus. After inquiring from them the location of Dean Sullivan's office, I managed to fight my way back through the grasping vines and left the jungle-like laboratory.

Once again outside in the endless corridors, I finally found Dean Sullivan's office. Petite Pat Ferriter, Mike's private secretary, ushered me into the great educator's inner office. There Richie Waldron was showing Mike his new version of the Radosta, named for that great woman scientist, Joan Radosta.

After discussing old times, we went for a tour of Mike's Astrobiological School. He told me that the building had been designed by Walter Alterisio and constructed under the supervision of Fred Fowler, two of the most successful of Waltham High's 1960 graduates.

Although I was a bit squeamish at the thought of visiting the experimental laboratories, I reluctantly accepted the kind invitation of the dean and his able assistant, Frank Colangelo.

When we reached the labs, Mike led me to a room where George Breslin was performing a vital experiment concerning a monkey's reactions to plant life on the newly-discovered planet, Browning, explored by Kenneth Brown. Working beside George was Charlotte McCullough, who was testing the life expectancy of white mice. I marveled at her courage in handling those squirming white rodents. The two biologists were so deeply engrossed in their studies that I could see that I should not disturb them. Dean Sullivan told me that he had only 50 seconds to reach a very important meeting of the board of trustees, so reluctantly I bid him farewell.

Suddenly I realized that I, too, would be late for my meeting with James Hubei and Edward Doucette if I did not catch the next rocket back to earth. As I hurried to return to our home planet, I thought again of the day's amazing events and wished that I could start on my journey all over again.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR COACH

The 1959 football season had many thrills and exciting moments. True, we won but two games and lost five, but the season proved to be a success in a way, for the team progressed as the weeks went by, and Newton and Somerville were defeated in the last two games.

Offensively, we seemed to move the ball by rushing and passing. But defensively we did not have the proper "set up" and "experience" to stop our opponent. Even in defeating Newton and Somerville our defense had many "gaps."

And yet many of the boys who played very good football for us will return for the 1960 season. Our line will be much stronger in depth and experience. Our backfield will have a year of veteran play behind them.

The seniors who leave us will be surely missed. They certainly gave their fullest effort and desire. Little fellows like Al Graceffa and Allie Crane will be hard to replace. Big boys like Carl Pergola and John Frechette are not expendable. Mike Skane, Arthur Main, Robert Dangelmayer, William Noke, Michael McNamara, Kenny Zeno, Joe La Cava and Jim Curtin will be a huge loss.

Full speed ahead

MR. THOMAS F. NEYLON JR.

'Twas the night before deadlines—and right up to the very last minute Mr. Thomas Neylon, our faculty adviser, was busy helping us to complete the Mirror. Because of his endless patience and thoughtful advice this year's Mirror will rank as one of the finest school yearbooks ever published. Gaze into our Mirror and you will see the reflections of his tireless effort and helpful guidance. So . . .

For our Mirror, Mirror on the wall
We thank Mr. Neylon most of all!

Once upon a time there was an art supervisor named Mr. Paul Shea. When he heard of our plans to incorporate more art into the Mirror, he willingly volunteered his aid. His experience and interest helped the art staff immeasurably in producing the fine work you have enjoyed in this book. We are very thankful for his interest and assistance.

MR. PAUL D. SHEA

The staff wishes to express its thanks to:

Mr. William Gallagher and Mr. James Westall for their many courtesies,

Mrs. Thomas Neylon for proofreading,

Mr. Guy Cogswell, Mr. George Doorakian, the News Tribune,

Phipps Studio, and Russo Studio for their photographic assistance.

This is Itek

Today, there are more men engaged in research than ever before in the history of mankind. Their achievements are being accelerated by modern equipment which makes possible in moments that which previously required months. The result is a tremendous volume of new information that is being added to man's storehouse of knowledge at a rate faster than he can assimilate it and put it to effective use.

Itek Corporation is engaged in creating systems which will collect, compress, code, index and store this information and have it available for display on a moment's notice. This work involves the practical application of the most advanced concepts of communication theory.

Itek information handling systems serve a variety of purposes in government, industry, science, education and the armed forces. In the area of photo reconnaissance for example, it is important to our nation's security that the photo interpreter be able to devote as much of his time as possible to the actual process of interpretation. Itek systems will automate much of the process of photo interpretation to eliminate routine work. In education, Itek systems will permit scholars to make more effective use of knowledge that is available, and will improve learning and teaching methods. In pioneering the new science of Information Technology, Itek is blending the skills and experience of scientists and engineers in a variety of disciplines. The efficient application of these skills is opening a bright, new era in man's search for a better world. If you would like additional information, write for booklet, This Is Itek.

BUDGET TERMS

When you graduate it's wonderful to have a telephone job waiting for you. You'll love the friendly new people you meet. And you'll like the excellent salary, the regular increases, the opportunities for advancement and the many additional benefits that make working for the Telephone Company so attractive to so many young people.

Telephone jobs are important ones. We have our own training program which you can enter without any previous job experience.

Why not come and see our employment interviewer soon . . . before you graduate. Ask the Guidance Counselor at your school to tell you when and where to apply.
